Bloomberg is a global information and technology company. Our customers around the world rely on us to deliver accurate, real-time business and market information that helps them make important financial decisions. Bloomberg Data department, the backbone of our iconic Bloomberg Terminal is responsible for acquiring, interpreting and publishing this data, ultimately feeding and moving the financial markets.

Join us at this event to discover how you can contribute to our mission and thrive in a data-centric role. You will have the opportunity to meet our Data teams, learn about innovative projects and gain insights into the workflow of our data pipeline.

Make it happen here.
